HIGHLIGHTING INVESTMENTS IN BC Building Reliable Infrastructure

Nova, Solar, Ravi, and I thanking our local Neonatal Intensive Care Unit and Maternity Ward nurses.

Announcing $9.73 million to upgrade active transportation infrastructure from Vancouver to Simon Fraser University.

Delivering infrastructure funding for 45 projects across BC through the Canada Community-Building Fund.

It is always an emotional experience visiting the hard-working healthcare workers at Royal Columbian Hospital. This is where both Nova and Solar were born, including where Nova spent the first 20 days of her life under the intensive care of a team of Canada's best health professionals. We regularly visit with pizza and chocolate in hand to show our appreciation. This year we also shared that a $1.7 billion investment is being made to increase their wages, alongside the $196 billion committed to health care over the next ten years.

Mayor Hurley and I recently announced a major investment to upgrade the Vancouver-Simon Fraser University Active Transportation Connection. These improvements will make a significant difference in the lives of everyone in our community by bringing this bikeway up to All Ages and Abilities (AAA) infrastructure standards. This will make commuting alongside Hastings Street accessible to families with children, seniors and new riders. This will help connect Vancouver, Burnaby, Port Moody and Coquitlam with a more direct trail and cycling route and is a core part of Canada's Active Transportation Strategy.

Alongside municipal and provincial representatives, we announced $103.5 million in funding for 45 infrastructure projects across British Columbia. These projects are delivered through the Canada Community-Building Fund and contribute to the more than 900,000 jobs Canadians have created since the pandemic. This includes new fire halls, wastewater treatment plant improvements, and airport and pathway expansions. Most importantly, local governments prioritize these projects, ensuring that our community's priorities are the federal government's priorities.

Share Your Thoughts On Budget 2023.

Touring the Deep Cove shoreline with SheSummit's Ocean Education and Exploration Day to learn more about their efforts to teach youth about the importance of marine and wildlife conservation.

Federal Housing Minister Ahmed Hussen, President of Catalyst Community Developments Society Luke Harrison, Mayor Hurley, Councillors Sav Dhaliwal, Richard Lee, Alison Gu, James Wang, Daniel Tetrault and I announced that 358 new affordable housing units will be constructed in Burnaby and that Burnaby will be part of the next stage of the Rapid Housing Initiative.

We are now giving away free, reusable bags to reduce single-use plastics in our community.

Today, the world's major economies are moving at an unprecedented pace to fight climate change, retool their economies, and build the Net-Zero industries of tomorrow. At the same time, our closest allies are looking to shift their economic dependence away from dictatorships and towards stable, reliable democracies like our own.

With the race to build a clean global economy already underway, there is a new national project in front of us: to build our generation's version of the Transcontinental Railway—one that will protect our environment, grow our economy, and ensure every single Canadian can share in the prosperity we will create together. Canada has the potential to become a clean electricity superpower with a cross-Canada electricity grid that is more sustainable, more secure, and more affordable.

We are a country of big ideas, big opportunities, and hardworking people who can do big things. The measures proposed in Budget 2023 are important steps towards that goal.

To understand the more than $120 billion that have been invested in transitioning our economy to date, please read the environmental chapter of Budget 2023 here: www.budget.canada.ca/2023/report-rapport/chap3-en.html.

$10-a-day childcare is saving parents up to $6,600 per child annually.

Student Loans are now interest-free, and student grants are increasing by 40%.

Increasing the deduction for Tradespeople to help with the cost of new equipment.

$196 billion for healthcare over the next 10 years.

Up to $467 for 11 million families to help with the high cost of groceries.

$13 billion to provide universal dental care to millions of Canadians.

27% reduction in credit card fees saving consumers and small businesses more than $1 billion annually.

Automatic tax filing to ensure our community's most vulnerable get the benefits they are entitled to.

Lowering the maximum allowable interest rate and decreasing the amount payday lenders can charge their clients.

Our affordable childcare plan means women do not have to choose between their career and their family, helping women's participation in the workforce reach an all-time high.

Participating in the Union of BC Municipalities affordable housing summit alongside the BC Minister of Housing and Mayors and Councillors from across the province to find workable solutions.

We proudly sponsored a Parliamentary viewing of Krow's TRANSformation. The film was created by our neighbour Gina Lazarowich.

Our government is working to eliminate single-use plastics and to keep them out of our oceans. If you would like us to send you reusable bags in either red or green, please fill out the survey indicating the number of bags you would like. Bags can be picked up at our office anytime, or we can mail them to your house.

In addition to our survey, you can call our office at 604-718-8870 or email us at terry.beech@parl.gc.ca. Please be sure to include your full mailing address.
